  - When African slaves arrived, Portuguese forcibly took on slave women as sexual partners
  - Led to widespread miscegenation and mixing of races over time.
- Brazil received more African slaves than any other country in the world (10 times more than US)
  - Has largest population of African-descendants outside of Africa

  - * “US has millions of people who are not racist but is a racist country vs. Brazil has millions of people who are racists, but it is not a racist country”
- * Myth of ‘racial democracy’ propagated by sociologist Gilberto Freire
  - * Thus it is often claimed that it is more of a class than race issue
    - * Cite Pelé as proof
- * But like in US major symbols of black success tied to sports and music
- * Laws applied differently according to class
  - * Special jail cells for those with college degrees

DOWNSIDE OF INFORMALITY

BRAZIL – US DIFFERENCES

- Brazil has not had a civil rights movement like the US despite making some strides with affirmative action /quota systems

- While US had a more serious race discrimination problem than Brazil due to segregation laws and brutal post-slavery period of KKK, lynchings, Jim Crow laws, it has now moved beyond Brazil in terms of laws and opportunities

- Obama, first African-American president

- With more blurred color line, Brazil can probably more easier overcome five centuries of discrimination, but the country first has to recognize that it has a race problem

- Lei de Cotas 50% of federal university slots reserved for low income and for Afro-descendants and indigenous persons (over 55,000 students by 2013)
